Pavilion

A dark comedy by Emily White

Time September 2019

“They all convene at this place, the local Friday night disco, The Pavilion or Pivvy: once a grand old theatre for the upper echelons, now a drafty old cavernous wasteland for the hoi polloi. I’ve seen more blood, puke and tears than anyone should ever have to and I’m back every Friday night to witness more.”

Dance. Drink. Fight. Snog.

Music pounds, lager flows, lust grinds and fists fly. A small town in a forgotten corner of Wales, full of big personalities and every one of them out for the final Friday night disco at the Pavilion. Like the local school and the public library, it’s about to be shut down.

Pavilion was first performed at Theatr Clwyd in September 2019.

This amateur production of Pavilion is presented by arrangement with Nick Hern Books.

Please note this show contains haze and strobe effects, scenes of violence and of a sexual nature, blood, smoking and strong language.
