Arjun's (actual) Hindu Shrine

We believe that Gods Grace is spread all over the house by lighting a lamp. It also represents love and devotion to the God. Light symbolises the absence of darkness, grief

Flowers are offered to God in worship to represent devotion and loyalty that a person has for the Gods

Some of our Murti:
Lord Ganpati and Lord Krishna.

Fruits offered to the Gods as part of rituals. It is later eaten by the worshippers, as Gods offerings.

We burn incense sticks while praying as a ritual as it makes the place of worship pleasant and the aroma makes us relaxed and at peace.

The fruit in the bowl is an offering to the gods to show respect towards them.

The picture frame is where they have the picture of the god they worship.

The candle lit is to show the light in Brahma.

The jam is shown as kum kum powder is to show respect to the gods and it is also placed onto the god in the picture frame

The water is what they believe holds purifying and cleansing powers.

The incense stick is lit to symbolise the presents of deity.

Matthew's
Pop-Up
Hindu
Shrine

Matthew made a pop up book
and submitted a video of his book in action! Brilliant.
