Transferring personal data outside the UK

We may send your personal data to countries which do not have the same level of protection for personal data as there is in the UK. For example, we may communicate with you by email when you are overseas on holiday/a School trip or share information in relation to your welfare (where necessary) should you become ill on an overseas trip and require urgent medical attention. We will only do this if necessary, for the performance of our contract with you, or if the transfer of personal data is necessary to protect your vital interests and you are incapable of giving consent.

Where the country does not have the same level of protection for personal data as there is in the UK, we will endeavour to put reasonable safeguards in place.

Data Accuracy and Security

The Schools endeavour to ensure that all personal data held in relation to an individual is as up to date and accurate as possible. Individuals must please notify the respective School's HR department of any changes to personal data held about them.

An individual has the right to request that any out-of-date, irrelevant or inaccurate information held about them is erased or corrected (subject to certain exemptions under Data Protection Legislation). Please see the section below on data subject rights.

The Schools takes the security of personal data very seriously. The Schools have internal policies and controls in place to try to ensure that your data is not lost, accidentally destroyed, misused or disclosed and is not accessed except by authorised individuals.

Where the Schools engage third parties to process personal data on their behalf, they do so on the basis of written instructions, are under a duty of confidentiality and are obliged to implement appropriate measures to ensure the security of personal data.

Automated decision making

Automated decision making takes place when an electronic system uses personal information to make a decision without human intervention. The Schools are allowed to use automated decision making in limited circumstances. You will not be subject to automated decision-making, unless we have a lawful basis for doing so and we have notified you.

How long do we keep your personal data for?

The Schools will retain Personal Data securely and only in line with how long it is necessary to keep for a legitimate and lawful reason and will process your personal data for at least the duration of your employment. In some circumstances, such as for safeguarding and archiving, we will keep the data indefinitely.

If you have any queries about the retention of your personal data or wish to request that personal data is considered for erasure, please contact the applicable School. However, please bear in mind that the Schools will often have lawful and necessary reasons to hold on to some personal data even following such a request.

Where you have requested that we no longer keep in touch with you, we will need to keep a record of that fact in order to fulfil your wishes (called a "suppression record").

Data Subject Rights

Individuals have a number of rights under Data Protection Legislation which can be exercised in certain circumstances. These include:

- Your right to rectification – If the data we hold about you is incorrect, you can ask us to correct it. You also have the right to ask us to complete information you think is incomplete;
- Your right to erasure – You can ask us to delete the personal data we hold on you in certain circumstances;
- Your right to access – You can ask what personal data we hold about you and be provided with a copy. We will also give you extra information, such as why we use the data, where it came from and what types of people/organisations it has been sent to;
- Your right to object to processing – You can object to the School processing your personal data in certain circumstances;
- Your right to restrict processing – You can ask the School to restrict the use of your personal data in certain circumstances;
- Your right to data portability – You can ask the School to send you or another organisation certain types of personal data about you in a commonly-used machine-readable format, in certain circumstances.

If you want to exercise any of the above rights, please contact the person responsible for data protection at the relevant School, in writing.

Where an individual has requested access to their data (Data Subject Access Request), the Schools will endeavor to respond to any such written requests as soon as is reasonably practicable and in any event within statutory time-limits (which is one month in the case of requests for access to information). For further information regarding Data Subject Access Requests, please refer to our Data Protection Policy.

Certain information is exempt from the right to access. This includes, but is not limited to, information which identifies other individuals, or information which is subject to legal professional privilege. The Schools are also not required to disclose confidential references given, or requested, by the School for purposes of education, training or employment of any individual.

Right to withdraw consent

In the limited circumstances where you may have provided your consent to the collection, processing and transfer of your personal information for a specific purpose, you have the right to withdraw your consent for that specific processing at any time. To withdraw your consent, please contact the person responsible for data protection at the relevant School. Once we have received notification that you have withdrawn your consent, we will no longer process your information for the purpose or purposes you originally agreed to, unless we have another legitimate basis for doing so in law. Any use the Schools have made of your information before you withdraw your consent will still be valid.

Requests that cannot be fulfilled

You should be aware that the right of access is limited to your own personal data, and certain data is exempt from the right of access. This may include information which identifies other individuals or information which is subject to legal privilege (for example legal advice given to or sought by the Schools, or documents prepared in connection with a legal action).

The 'right to be forgotten' also only exists in certain circumstances. The Schools will often have compelling reasons to refuse specific requests to delete or stop processing your personal data. For example, we may need to comply with a legal requirement or there may be overriding legitimate grounds. All such requests will be considered on their own merits.

What if I do not provide personal data?

You have some obligations under your employment contract to provide the Schools with data. In particular, you are required to report absences from work and may be required to provide information about disciplinary or other matters under the implied duty of good faith.

You may also have to provide the Schools with data in order to exercise your statutory rights, such as in relation to statutory leave entitlements. Failing to provide the data may mean that you are unable to exercise your statutory rights.

Certain information, such as contact details, your right to work in the UK and payment details, have to be provided to enable the Schools to enter a contract of employment with you.

If you do not provide this information, this will prevent the Schools being able to fulfil its statutory and legal compliance obligations. It will also hinder the Schools' ability to administer the rights and obligations arising as a result of the employment relationship efficiently.

Privacy Notice Review

The Schools will update this Privacy Notice from time to time. Any substantial changes that affect your rights will be provided to you directly as far as is reasonably practicable.

Queries and Complaints

If you feel that either Schools has not acted properly when using your personal information, you can contact the School using the contact details above. Alternatively, if you are still not satisfied with the way that the School has handled your personal data, you have a right to make a complaint at any time to the Information Commissioner's Office, the UK supervisory authority for data protection issues by phone on 0303 123 1113.

The Information Commissioner's Office recommends that steps are taken to address any concerns relating to the use of your data with the School directly, before involving the regulator. Further information can be found at <https://ico.org.uk/concerns>.
